The members of Greystone Rail have been making music together since the early sixties when they were all employees of the Gransom Ironworks in Centerdale, RI. As indebted as they were to the Gransom Company Store, their only affordable form of entertainment was picking and singing popular Bluegrass and Country music. Mostly they dreamed of someday leaving Centerdale on the only train that passed through the remote town, the Greystone Line. Experiencing Lizzie's soulful renditions of bluegrass, country, and contemporary acoustic music coupled with her boys' spirited arrangements always make for a show that's more fun than a spoonful o' bees.
